"DEVIL WATER" By Anya Seton

"DEVIL WATER"
By Anya Seton

The stream called Devil Water ran—and indeed, still runs—through the Northumbrian estate of the Radeliffes, Earls of Derwentwater. The Radeliffes were doubly bound to the ill-fated Jacobite cause—by their Roman Catholic faith and their Stuart blood. It was inevitable that James, the young earl, and his hot-blooded brother Charles, should join in the short-lived rebellion of 1715 which resulted in ignominious defeat for the forces of the exiled James Stuart and in death for James Radliffe.

Devil Water is the true story of Charles Radeliffe, who escaped from Newgate prison after his brother's execution—of Jenny, his daughter by a secret marriage and of the strong affection between them, which endured through the years of separation and despite conflicting beliefs and loyalties.

Jenny's early childhood was spent with her mother's people, grim Covenanters on the Scottish border. At her father's summons she came to London, to the household of her father's cousin, Lady Betty Lee. Jenny's freshness and beauty caught the eye of the Duke of Wharton, president of the notorious Hell-Fire Club, who tried to kidnap her. It was at a London School that Jenny met the notorious Hell-Fire Club, who tried to kidnap her. It was at a London School that Jenny met Evelyn, daughter of the famous William Byrd, and went to Virginia with them.

The themes of this book are loyalty and courage, and like "The Winthrop Woman", "Devil World and the New. Like all of Anya Seton's books, it combines thoroughly documented history with superb story telling. The reader may know from the first that the Jacobite-cause is doomicd, but sometimes he hopes, and always he cares.

This book is available at the Crawford County to the same control of the county Library.

Will We Be Plundered?

The following is an excerpt from a letter written by an English historian. It makes very interesting readng in view of the sliding of the democracy or republic of our country more and more towards socialistic ways in the 30 years or so since the early thirties.

"There will be, I fear, spoliation. The spoliation will in There will be, I fear, spoliation. The spoliation will in rease the distress. The distress will produce fresh spoiation. There is nothing to stop you. Your Constitution as all sail and no anchor. As I said before, when a society has entered on this downward progress, either civilization or liberty must perish. Either some Caesar or a strong hand; or your republic will be as fearfully plundered and laid waste by barbarians in the Twentieth Cenury as the Roman Empire was in the Fifth—with this difference, that the Huns and the Vandals who ravaged the Roman Empire came from without, and that your lluns and Vandals will have been engendered withing your own country by your own institutions."

Now for the "shocker"—this letter was written 105 can. Lord Macaulay, on May 23, 1857, to H. S. Randall, seq. in which he analyzed whether liberty could enter in America, predicting economic vicissitudes would cause people to vote for legislators who promised to plunder the savings of the thrifty. ### The Foot in the Door

If the King-Anderson Bill were passed, is anyone naive enough to believe it would not be expanded? First, remoye the deductibles them include doctors fees; of course, more cost—raise the taxes. Then expand it to cover those under 65—again more cost. But the solution is simple—raise the taxes! After health care, then what? Can we afford the price—in taxes—in liberty. in liberty,

"There is a limit to what society can do for an individual without dostroying him as a man. The-material and spiritual sides of man are interwined — it is imsides of man are interwined — it is impossible for government to assume responsibility for one without intruding on the essential nature of the other. If you take from man his personal responsibility in caring for his material needs!— you take the will and opportunity to be free."

aid training is like not having a seat belt in your car. You don't miss it until vou need it and it isn't there. What is even worse than lack of first aid F. C. Welsh knowledge, however, is the harm done by well-meaning persons to accident victims in the mistaken belief they were helping them. them.

One of the first "don'ts" list-One of the first "don'ts" listed by the Red Cross for citizens lending a hand at automobile accidents is don't move an injury victime unless it is absolutely necessary. If the injured person has to be moved, then don't roll them over or twist them around. Pull them either head or feet first while a second person supports the other end of the body. This is to avoid aggravating internal injury.

injury Shock is almost always a result of injury and the best first aid procedure is to keep the victim comfortable and warm. If bones are broken, don't move await the arrival of an ambulance.

Bleeding should be stopped with a clean cloth pad and burns should be protected from the air by the same method to lessen pain.

Head injuries often bring unconciousness and the victim should be kept quiet and lying victim breathing, artificial respiration is necessary immediately.
